

POLYMER INJECTION TANK

Our polymer injection tanks are primarily used in dewatering applications and can also be used efficiently in other applications where mixing and/or hydrating chemicals is required. The tank is designed to reduce the amount of polymer required in drilling applications when compared to a standard chemical barrel. Available 24/7, our experienced and knowledgeable Solids Control team is committed to helping you achieve your operational goals. Our extensive suite of equipment is proactively maintained to ensure it is always ready for deployment.

FEATURES AND BENEFITS

- Skid mounted and equipped with lifting lugs for safe and easy handling.
- The package comes as a two-compartment tank system with each tank containing a 10hp mixing agitator used to mix a homogenous solution within the tank.
- Each compartment is steam coiled throughout to prevent freezing while operating in cold weather environments.
- Equipped with three variable-drive Moyno Pumps to ensure the precise feeding rate is achieved.
- The two-compartment design allows continual feeding by batch mixing flocculants and switching between tanks.
